THE TURF-CENTREVILLE COURSE, L. I. TROTTING.

On Thursday last a grotting contest for a purse of $ 150, mile heats, best three in five to skeleton wagons, took place over the above trotting course, which in its progress proved to be one of the most exciting that has occurred for years. There were fight for the spoils of victory, while the masses of three entries for the purse, riz: ch. m. Mountain Maid, ch. h. Kemble Jackson, and L. g. Flash .-The last named was drawn previous to the start, leaving the other two to contend for the prize .-Mountain Maid was the favorite at any odds. In fact, there was scargely a dollar staked on the stallion until after the third heat, and even then, notwithstanding he won that heat in the unusual time 2:34, the mare was offered at 50 to 30, with few owned by P. J. Nodine. She won all the purses in which slie was entered last year, and stands fair for a majority of those to come off this season. Kemble Juckson is a splendid stallion, by Andrew Jackson, out of Fanny Kemble. He is supposed to be the astest trotting stud at present on the turf. He is owned by Mr. Reynolds, and is entered in sevepal stakes and purses which will be trotted for this spring; among which, on the first of June, he will contend for a purse and stake of $4,000, with Pet, O'Blenis, Honest John, Boston Girl and Iola. The season looks auspicious for good trotting, and plenty of it. But, to describe the trot:-

First Heat.-Kemble Jackson won the pole, and took the lead at the start. He held it for nearly half a mile, the mare bouncing and breaking on the turn. The stallion then broke up, and fell off about a distance before Mr. Brooks his driver, succeeded in getting him on his pins again. The mare, however, waited for him, and jogged home, winning only by a length, in 2:47.

Second Heat,-There was very little difference between this heat and the previous one. The horse broke badly again, and again Mr. Nodine held up his mare, to make a decent looking heat, and thus please the outsiders. Tactics of this kind may do sometimes; but drivers have been caught in their own trap on more than one occasion; and Mr. Nod ine came very near paying dearly for his silly maneceivering, as will be seen subsequently. He might have distanced the horse in either of the previous heats, had he chosen to have done so. Time, 2:50.

Third Heat.—The owner of Kemble Jackson now induced Hiram Woodruff to take the horse in charge, knowing that the stallion had more speed in him than Mr. Brooks could, on this occasion, bring forth, his health and strength being rather feeble at present. Hiram, after brushing the horse up and down the stretch a few times, came for the word at a tremendous gate, lapped on the mare, and they dashed round the turn at a rate of speed seldom witnessed. The mare shook the horse off at the quarter; but on the back stretch he forced her to a break, and passed her at the half-mile pole. She recovered in an instant, and again was at the top of her speed. Hiram took the inside, and swung on the home stretch a couple of lengths clear, both going faster than they ever went before. A breathless silence ensued as the horses approached the score. Both drivers were straining every nerve; and Nodine, finding that his chances were hopeless on a trot, forced the mare to a run, and in that way came to the stand. Kemble won the heat by a length, amidst one of the most deafening shouts of applause for Hiram Woodruff that was ever heard on a track. Time, 2:34.

Fourth Heat,-The horse had now the inside of the track, but, unfortunately, he broke up as soon as the word "go" was given, and ran with the mare excellent breaker, soon dropped into a trot, and dashed round the turn and down the back stretch. as if chased by a locomotive engine. Not so with Kemble, however; he floundered about from one himself until he had reached the quarter pole. The mare at this time was seventy or eighty yards ahead. After getting settled the stallion made a very gallant effort to overtake the mare, gaining on her gradually, until, at the distance stand, he had reached her wheel, when he again broke up, and the mare passed the goal a length in front of him, in 2:36. Murmuring and loud words were now heard in all directions, among the crowd, about the start-some insisting that the horse had broken up before he reached the score, and others insisting that the mare passed him on a run. The judges, after a lengthy discussion-two against one-decided a dead heat. Time 2:36. It would be rather difficult to find in this part of the world, any rule to warrant such a decision, we think

Fifth Heat.-The horses were started this time parallel, and they dashed round the turn side and side until Kemble broke up. The mare then left him by forty yards advantage, which she retained to the score, making the heat in 2:41. The following is a summary :-F. J. Nodine entered ch. m. Mountain

MATANZAS, April 20.-Since the date of our last advices, the demand for Clayed Sugars, has continued brisk at steadily increasing rates; purchase, however mostly made for European markets, and we have to-day to advance our quotations to 5a51 for Cucuruchos, 52a61 for Browns, 61a7 for Yellows, 71a72 for Floretes, and 81a91 for Whites. Muscovados are in less inquiry, some parcels of inferior quality have brought 41 rails, while for good to prime 5a54 rails are still the ruling rates. Clayed Molasses has been sold at 2 rails per keg for single cargoes. Muscavadoes continue at 31 rails, and nearly all to come to market this season was engaged at that figure in the early part of the season, and for markets in Great Britain. Freights for the United States have declined-

$5% for hhds, and $1 1-2 per box of Sugar and $23 per 110 galls, Molasses.

Exchange -2a2 1-2 per cent. discount on the United States, and 9 per cent. premium on London. THE SANDUSKY DEFAULTER.-Harlow Case, the late collector at Sandusky, who disappeared some time since, is now supposed to have absconded a defaulter, according to the Register, certainly to the amount of $20,000, and probably $33,000. The books show receipts in the office in January and Case took $14,000 to New York, as he said, to pay into the substreasury there, but it is not yet known that he paid the money over. Early in March he took the further sum of $16,000, for the like purpose, declaring that he left in the safe $3,000 for the current expenses of the office. The collector purchased $13,200 in Eastern Exchange of a bank in Sandusky, and is supposed to have taken regard to Central America. It is on the simple $6,000 off with him in coin. If he paid the $14,-000 in New York his default is $19,000; if not, it is $30,000. There have been reports in circulation unfavorable to Case's character for some time.-Let the matter be thoroughly investigated, and the guilty punished, no matter who they are.—Cincin-

NASHVILLE, TENN.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 2, 1853.

The Banner, in a lengthy editorial, labors t incense the whigs of Tennessee against the Admin istration. It assures them that the democracy ar determined to "humble and subjugate" them, an that "no manifestations, on their part, of a friend! disposition towards the administration will say them." We are well convinced that such languag as this does not correctly reflect the spirit of the now triumphant party. If a wish further to "hum J. K. Howard, of Lebation; W. E. Venable, of Franklin; ble" and "subjugate" the whig party has ever been Col. Wm. A. Quartes, of Montgomery; Col. Wm. B. Bute. expressed by a democratic organ, we feel assured that it meets with no response from the democratic party, whose chief characteristic has ever been magnanimous forbearance towards a fallen foe. For one, we deprecate the use of such interoperate language. We believe that the division between the two parties is one of principle. Upon that distinction alone we have triumphed in the past, and upon that distinction we expect to triumph in the future. We ask the whigs of Tennessee calmly to review the measures of democratic policy. We ask them to scan the acts of the administration with an impartial eve-to weigh them in just scales-and pass upon them an honest and unprejudiced verdict. We ask them to renounce the captious and foregone conclusions of their leaders, and to render unto the administration whatever of praise and support its acts. their followers fight for measures they believe to be essential to the welfare of the country. We have nothing to expect from the leaders of the whig par ty, but a factious and headlong opposition. They are impregnable to the assaults of reason. Though not blind, they will not see. Though not deaf, they will not hear. From their forbearance we have nothing to hope. But from the masses of the whig party we may safely look for a fair and honest hearing. They are not wedded to the whig organization from purely selfish motives. We believe them to be mistaken in adhering to whig principles, but we have never denied to them honesty and patriotism in their convictions. The people are always sincere, however mistaken. The love of office and the thirst for political distinction have but little influence upon the masses of either party. To them we may safely look at all times for a just and fair estimate of men and measures. To the masses of the whig party we now look for such an estimate of the President and his policy. Shall we look in vain. Shall the factious efforts of whig leaders thwart us in this legitimate expectation? We cannot believe so. The whig masses must prove less just in the future than in the past, if they can be rallied in the spirit which now animates their leaders. The Banner is the last paper that should complain that "manifestations of a friendly disposition towards the administration" are thrown away upon its supporters. That journal has never manifested such a disposition. From the first, it has met the acts of the administration in a spirit of factious and uncompromising opposition. If it has betrayed the first "friendly manifestation," we have not discovered it, and are quite sure that it was uninten ional. When the Banner gives earnest of a disposition to deal fairly with the administration, it will have no cause to complain of the spirit in which it is met. But while it gives itself up to a factious and heedless opposition, we trust it will at least cease to complain that it is not "courteously and frankly invited it to judge the Administration by its acts, and to give it such support as it may deem consistent with its principles and with sound views of national policy.' Such an invitation would be a mockery, in view of its present course.

The True Whig attempts to justify the outrageous Henry-mender of the last Legislature. It thinks it perfectly right that Andrew Johnson should be legislated out of Congress, and "the brilliant talents and personal popularity" of Gustavas A. HENRY legislated in-and that, too, by the latter's own act. "Turn about is fair play," says the True Whig. It charges that Mr. Johnson was a member of the Legislature of 1842, "when Maj. until he carried off her feet. She being the fastest | HENRY's district was saddled with about a thousand runner of the two, took the lead, and being also an majority." Let it be remembered that the Legislature of 1842 had a whig majority in the House, and that that whig majority freely voted for the bill which "saddled upon Major HENRY's district about side of the track to the other, and did not recover a thousand majority." The whigs of the Senate also voted for the bill. Maj. HENRY was not then in Congress, and was not affected by the bill. Mr. Johnson was not the father of the bill, nor was it his darling object to Legislate a distinguished opponent out and legislate himself into Congress. There is no parallel between his course and Maj. Hex-

Among the delegates to our late State Convention, we know of no one who made a finer impressien than R. G. PAYNE, Esq., of Columbia. He made an eloquent speech in the convention in behalf of Mr. Jonnson's nomination, and after the nomination was made he was enthusiastically called out, and responded in a still happier effort. Mr. PAYNE has long enjoyed a fine reputation for his eloquent and able efforts at the bar.

PRESIDENT PIERCE'S PERSONAL HABITS.-The Washington correspondent of the New York Courier says of Gen. It appears that Mr. Corwin made additional allowances of several thousand dollars on some Florida claims growing out of the eighth article of the treaty with Spain, after the decision of former Secretaries against extra allowance. Mr. GUTHRIE has refused to acquiesce in Mr. Conwin's decision, and takes the same ground in the matter occupied by the late Judge Woodbury. In the cases decided by Mr. Corwin the money was paid, but Mr. Gurn-

RIE stops it for the future. New Counterfeit.-We were shown, yesterday, a new counterfeit $20 bill on the Bank of Tennessee. The paper is somewhat pale, but strong, and not worn. The following is a description: Letter A, No. 296, dated Nashvillle November 1, 1851, and made payable at Clarksville. On the left hand it has a picture of Gen. Scott, and on the right that of a woman. It is signed Wm. Ledbetter, president, and S. R. Anderson, cashier. The letter "m." in the president's name, is very irregular in the counterfeit, while in the genuine it is regular, and the letter "s" in the cashier's name is regular in the counterfeit, while in the genuine it does not resemble an "s" in the least. Good judges can easily detect it, but it is calculated to deceive the unwary. The bill was brought here from Shelbyville.

POTATOES IN OREGON.—The Oregonian gives as the product of one hill of potatoes grown in a field of several acres, and without any extra culture, one hundred and ninety-nine potatoes, weighing fiftythree pounds. The product of several hills in the field weighed over forty pounds to each hill.

Washington, April 23 .- Mr. Borland's appointnent to Central America is regarded equivalent to the proclamation of the MONROE doctrine. He voted against the CLAYTON and BULWER treaty, and spoke in favor of its abrogation, at the late extra session of the Senate, and will unquestionably go the length of his instructions against British intervention and

The reports I see in the Herald about the Manchester, do not agree with what have heard here. Perhaps a letter sent to the Government at Washington, gives you by this time a different view of the affair. There is some likelihood of difficulties arising, from the meeting of British men of war and American vessels in the seas near Cuba. If the cruisers are not vigilant, the slavers will get by with American colors flying, and if the British make search on board of American vessels, it will be resented, so Mr. Bull has not so easy a business to perform as was expected. The Buzzard brought in a schooner she boarded on the coast, having slave trade articles on board. The frigate Vessel was off the mouth of the har-

THE SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. The friends of the Hon. W. M. CHURCHWELL are anxious that he should be a candidate for re-election. His course in the last Congress was such as to identify him with his constituents-he was always watchful in guarding, protecting and promoting their interest. We know of no one who could represent us in the next Congress with more ability than Col. Churchwell. We feel gratified that his many friends in the counties of Fentress and Overton would be pleased to support him. We hope that the Colonel will gratify his many friends, by announcing himself as a candidate soon. MANY VOTERS.

NEW YORK DRY GOODS MARKET.

The New York Tribune of Wednesday says: Business in Dry Goods is active, and the consumption exceeds that of the corresponding period of last year materially. Goods are far from being in excess of stock. Yet, as prices are high and renunerative, there is great readiness to sell on the part of first holders, as all thoughts of any further advance of price have long since been abandoned. This feeling of itself renders the market generally easier to buyers, who, at the same time, are very wary from the same cause. Jobbers are very active, and are doing a sound and healthy business. Stocks of French goods are small in first hands. The Spring mportation is now closing by the importers, and though there were early expectations of too large an mportation, yet the demand has justified the importations, as it does not appear that any great amount of goods will be carried over the season. On a few descriptions of goods, mostly prints, there has been some loss, being unsuitable to the trade; but on the whole, goods have sold satisfactorily. There have been more auction sales of late, than usual at this season. The large offerings of domestic lawns through the auction room were sold, but at a large reduction from January sales, the Portsmouth lawns, bring mostly only 11a12c. and the Lodi printed lawns, only 7a10c. for madders, and 104a 12c. for cloths. At private sale, a steady demand prevails, both for the country and city trade. Brown Sheetings and Shirtings are in better stock, but are in ready demand, and holders are anxious to sell, Bleached goods are also active in part for export, but we notice less firmness in prices and some concession on the finer qualities.

Drills are less active and in better supply. Prices seem steady, Sc for browns, 91 for blues, and 81-2 for bleached. Osnaburghs are in good and increasing stock, with a decreasing demand. Prices easier. Denims are quick of sale and firm at 9 1-2a9 3-4 .-Stripes are rather easier in price. Ticks are firmer. Printing Cloths have declined 1-4c, with more activity. At the decline there is more firmness,-Prints have declined 2c. and are dull at that. Gingnams sell readily at 10 1-2alle. Lawns are 2 1-2c ower than in January. Delaines are in better request and rather steady. Woolens continue as firm as over, but the trade in domestics is light. Felt goods are most enquired for. Cloths are in light supply. Cassimeres are rather easier for the lower and medium qualities of fancy styles, but good qualities and staple styles are very firm and in good request. Satinets, at 40a50c. are active. Linseys are brisk at 21c. Tweeds are in demand at full ices. Jeans are dull. Flannels are dull and firm. Blankets are in fair demand at steady prices. In French goods prices are very steady, excepting prints. Bombazines have been brisk at firmer prices. Bareges met with a ready demand at previous rates, and black Delaines have been lively; white modes colors are not so much sought after. Silks maintain satisfactory prices. Shawls are in active request, as well as Ribbons. British goods are held with much firmness, but the stocks are still large.

By comparing this synopsis of the treaty with the Sloo grant many important discrepancies will be discovered, making the treaty much more liberal than the grant. The liberality, however, can, in all probability, be explained away, when occasion requires, by diplomatic quibble.

A Spanish copy of the treaty has been received in town, but its authenticity is doubted. I cannot even vouch for the entire correctness of the synopsis given above. The associates of Sloo in this country do not de-

STANDFIELD HALL. By J. P. Smith, Esq. AMY LAWRENCE. MINNIE GREY. GUS. HOWARD.

"There is still hope for English Literature so long as such works as "Minnie Grey" and "Gus Howard" shall continue be written. The farmer we have wholly read; the latter-which is a sequel to the first-we are now engaged in reading; and we must contess that we have rarely been so deeply entertained as in their perusal. "Minnie Grey," taken as a literary performance, is well worthy of a place be-side the noble productions of Scott and Dumas; and, while it yields not in splendor of conception and fineness of exe-cution, to the ablest works of the former, it fully equals, if it never eclipses, the subtle interest which marks the creations of the latter. The story of Mannie Grey is one of uncommon power; and the rapidity with which it is caught up by the public from the counters of the booksellers is one of the strongest evidences in the world of its originality, interest and strength," -London Literary Gazette.

It is an association formed by individuals, who unite together, under a contract, to support each other's families in case of death. In order to accomplish this it becomes ne-cessary to establish a fund, which is done by a yearly contribution, duly apportioned among them according to their expectations of life, and the amount to be received by the family at each one's decease. Suppose a person at 25 years of age, whose premium on

$1,000 would be $20 00 a year, should put this sum out at interest -at the end of one year, if be should decease, his family barely gets $20 00 with interest added, making 21 20 only. RUTH. A NOVEL. By the author of "Mary Barton."

W. T. BERRY & CO. have just received-RUTH: A NOVEL. By the author of "Mary Barton."

"We find it difficult to say how much we have been charm ed and affected by this book. We rack it with the most antiful of Mrs. Inchbald's stories, and the best of the Two Old Men's Tales, for true and pathetic writing. Buth is for-ever a real person to us, after reading her story; and of the many familiar faces that live in books, we shall think of few with a deeper interest. No tale of guilt and shame, told with a deeper interest. No take or gain and shalle, roths without pretence or preaching, has taught more gentle truths of mercy and compassion. We are tempted to use language hardly applicable to fiction; but if in any form fiction may aspire to more than the amusement of leisure hours, we should say that it might be so in such a story as Ruth's. Never did we read one in which, upon the whole, a clearer balance is held between the false and true, in which a more erent homoge is paid to virtue, in which narrow truths and short-sighted charities are put in more instructive contrast with the very faith they profess to rest upon, or in which the transitory shames of life are so purified by thoughts of nature and eternity .- London Examiner .
